

The free-shipping banner makes a promise checkout breaks, and Paid Social rarely converts

Marketing brief · Fernhill Supply Co. · Jul 27 to Sep 20, 2026 · Sources: GA4 (219,152 sessions), 150 support tickets, support team notes

1.7%

conversion in the second half, down from 2.1%

0.5%

Paid Social conversion, on 23% of sessions

3.4%

Email conversion, the best channel

Key findings

1 The free-shipping banner hides the $99 minimum

Shipping cost tickets rose from 8 to 25, and 46% of “free shipping” searches end the visit.

Next step: Add “on orders over $99” to every banner and ad that says free shipping.

2 Paid Social brings traffic that does not buy

Paid Social has 23% of sessions but converts at 0.5%, against 1.9% for the site.

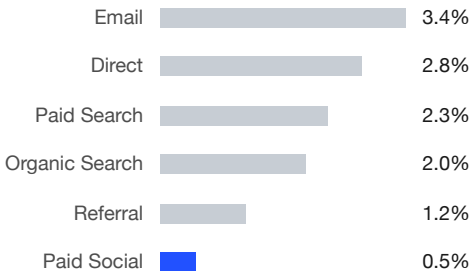

Next step: Move part of the Paid Social budget to Email and Paid Search until the landing page is fixed.

3 Customers say “completely dry”: lead with it

The Ridgeline Shell Jacket gets the most praise (6 of 14 tickets), and 4 of those say “completely dry”.

Next step: Lead the next Email, the best channel at 3.4%, with the Ridgeline and these words.

Exhibit 1: Paid Social converts at 0.5%, the lowest of any channel

Source: GA4 sessions and purchases by channel, Jul 27 to Sep 20, 2026

Did you change the free shipping minimum? The banner says free shipping but at checkout it added $9.95.

Shopper at checkout, mobile, September

In their words

“completely dry”

5 tickets

“fit is perfect”

3 tickets

“buy again”

3 tickets

“excellent quality”

2 tickets

Words gap: shoppers searched “waterproof” 1,319 times, but the Ridgeline page gives no waterproof rating.

Want more detail? Ask for a detailed report on any finding or topic, for example “Detailed report on finding 2” or “Deep dive: channel spend”.